Mr. Nelson Dollar, an aged gentle man of eighty-eight years, met with an unfortunate accident a tew days ago when attempting to prune a fruit tree in his grounds. He had placed a ladder against the limb of a tree and was standing upon it, when both the limb and the ladder came down carrying Mr. ing Mr. Dollar with them, seriously injuring his back so that he is confined to his bed and suffering considerably.

A despatch from Belleville says : The actions of a young man named Edward Carr caused considerable excitement in this city. He made an at-tempt to shoot his brother-in-law, Bert Report, and when an officer tried to effect his arrest he ran and jumped into the Moira River, followed by the officer, who apprehended him. At the police station, later Carr made a determined effort to hang himself in the cell, using his suspenders, which broke, and the sound of hisfall attracted the attention of the officer in charge at the station. The young man was frustrated in a second attempt to hang himself.

LOYALIST CHAPTER

The United Empire Loyalist Chapter The United Empire Loyalist Chapter is to be congratulated on the successful manner in which their entertainment, the Japanese Festival, was carried out on the 18th and 19th May. Never before in the history of the town has such an entertainment been given here, and the bare old town hall reverse the successful of the control of the con never presented a more attractive or never presented a more attractive or charming appearance.

The scheme of decoration was conceived by Miss Lineau, who was willingly and most efficiently assisted in its execution by a splendid Decoration Committee. On the platform was a large Japanese gate, with lattice fence running from this to the wall on either side, the windows being also covered with lattice work. Boughs of green, roses, crysanthemums, and other flowers in all colors, turned the hall into a perfect garden, while quantities of Japanese lanterns were strung from every available place.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

Commends the Canadian Government Annuities Scheme.

A prophet is without honour in his own country. As with prophets, so it is with the natural advantages which a country enjoys, and those ac quired advantages which are obtained under its laws and customs it often needs the eye of the outsider to discover the striking benefits of some in: stitution with which the people are blessed.

The earnest tribute paid to the Canadian Government Annuities system by Mr. William Jennings Bryan during his address to the citizens of Galt on Friday last should do much to determine the question for those who have not yet taken advantage of the system, not yet taken advantage of the system, the opinion coming as it does, from one who has made the social problem a life study. He is reported to have said: "I have been trying for years to figure out a similar scheme for the benefit of the citizens of the United States, and I cannot understand why every civilized country does not follow the lead of Canada and encourage the people to put something by for the day when they will be too gld to work. This is true co-operative Government," he added. While other countries have established pension schemes, which are but extensions of Poor Law Relief, the result of which is to pauperize, and not to stimulate thrift, Canadian Government has, by its Annuities Act, inaugurated a scheme whereby thrift is promoted, and the people are provided with facilities which will enable them to help them. selves, and at the same time preserve their self-respect and dignity. Full information may be obtained by ad-dressing the Superintendent of Can-adian Government Annaities, Ottawa, to whom all letters go free of postage.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Thomas A. Edison is quoted as saying that geography will be taught by means of moving pictures, as soon as the machines and films for producing them become inexpensive enough. He favors such teaching, asserting that he "can teach more geography in fifteen minutes with the moving picture machines than the schools as now equipped can teach in as many days." In explanation of how he would conduct a geography lesson the inventor says he would first show the relation to other countries of the country to be studied by pictures and maps. Then he would throw on the screen motion pictures taken in streets of the principal towns and others showing topographical features, such as a view of a mountain range taken from a moving train. Further illustrations would be of products of the country.

There can be no doubt that the application of this idea would mean great improvement in the teaching of geography. That study, dry and vague under the conventional treatment, would become vitalized and made of personal interest to every pupil. The moving picture in the school would take away much of the fascination that exists in nickel theatres, where good and bad pictures are too frequently mingled. Other subjects than geography, such as nature studies and the drama, could well be taught by this means. Let us hope the fulfillment of Mr. Edison's prophecy is not far dis-

As we are approaching that particular June day of 1911 which will be the longest day in the year, it may be interesting to know that while we have a "shortest" day about Dec. 23, a day and night exactly equal about March 21, and a "longest" day about June 21, at the same time the earth is about as nearly a perfect running mechanism as can be conceived.

"Compared to the earth," says Prof. Mitchell, an English astronomist, "the sun is a bad timekeeper. The earth turns on its axis with little friction, and so uniform is its rate of speed that astronomers with their most refined observations covering about 5,000 years, have not been able to detect a 100th part of a second's variation in its revolution.

As to the ordinary expression of the sun as a chronometer marker. On Jan 1, 1911, the sun was 3,000,-000 miles nearer the earth than it day measured by sun time until starch dissolved in water.

SELECTED RECIPES.

Dressing for Cucumbers .- Use one-half pint of sour cream, one-quarter of an onion, one-eighth pound of butter, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Slice the onion and stew a few minutes in butter, let it cool, and then stir in the cream and add the vinegar, stirring carefully. Have the cucumpers sliced thin and ice-cold, dust with pepper and salt, and pour dressing over.

Vinaigrette Sauce.-Use three tablespoonfuls of oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of grated onion, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of capers; salt and pepper. (The capers may be omitted if preferred.) This dressing is especially appetizing in the warm spring days. Serve on cold meat, cold salmon, boiled calf's head, or on any vegetable salad.

Jewish String Beans .- String, break and wash a suitable quantity of young green beans, and cook them in salted water until tender. Drain off all the water, and pour over them a sauce made by browning one tablespoonful of flour in one tablespoonful of beef fat, adding one tablespoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one cup of soup stock, and cook until smooth. Serve very hot.

Nut Bread .- Scald one-half cup of milk and add one-half cup of boiling water. When the mixture has cooled until it is lukewarm, add three-fourths of a cake of compress ed yeast softened in three tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water, one tablespoonful of butter, two of molasses, one cup of chopped or ground nut meats, one-half cup of white flour, and enough whole wheat flour to knead. Finish and bake as ordinary bread.

Buttermilk Cakes .- Melt in equal quantities enough butter and lard to make one pint mixed. Beat until light one quart of molasses to which have been added two small tablespoonfuls of baking-powder. Add, in order, one pint of buttermilk, the melted butter and lard, one pound of dark-brown sugar, three eggs well beaten, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of powdered cloves and two and a half quarts of flour. Bake in small time.

If the cakes are put in crocks in a cool place they will keep fresh a month or more.

A New Recipe for Stewed Rhubarb-Strip the outer skin from one bunch of rhubarb, cut the stalks in inch pieces, and put on the fire in a stew-pan with nearly enough water to cover them. When the water to cover them. 4 CLEVER SWINDLER ESCAPES.

Maidens' German Captivating Hearts His Specialty.

A notorious swindler of a high order of talent, whose specialty was the marriage line, and whose most recent alias was General von Passy, has just made his escape from the prison at Heilbronn, Germany.

On a recent morning his cell window, which looks out on a narrow lane, was found open, the iron ence. bars securing it being filed through and the count gone. It is presumed that he had assistance from outside. He found time before leaving prison to write a polite not to the Crown Prosecutor, begging forgiveness for causing this official so much trouble.

'The fact is,' wrote the count, 'that I am obliged to attend to certain very important matters, and must therefore renounce your hospitality.'

*Count von Passy' first became prominent about five years ago as Major von Schiemangk. An American major of cavalry he called himself. He donned a uniform which was that of the United States cavalry, plus several bits of gold lace and numerous gilded buttons, which were not in the army regulations. He explained afterward with shocking cynicism that ladies liked these gilded additions, and that they enabled him to reach their hearts more speedily. Be this as it may, he carried on his adventures for some time with impunity and was said to have netted considerable sums from guileless maidens and from widows.

At last he made the acquaintance was on the point of handing him over 3,000 marks as guarantee mon-ev, when she thought better of it and asked for the assistance of the for the major, and sentence of three years' imprisonment was evidence of the manner in which the Court of Justice viewed his enterprise.

Lesson IX.-Micah's picture of universal peace, Mic. 4. 1-8. Golden Text, Mic. 4. 8.

Verses 1-4. The future of Zion as the religious metropolis of the world. The passage has an almost exact parallel in Isa. 2. 2-4. best opinion seems to be that both Isaiah and Micah must have taken the prophecy from some older source, the provision of a time of universal peace being a popular idea, of which this passage is the finest expression.

Its exaltation above other mountains and hills means its spiritual and temporal supremacy. Politically and religiously, Zion is to tower above all the governments of the earth. No topographical elevation is meant.

2. Many nations shall go-The heathen nations are to flow (1) toward Zion in a steady stream, in order to be taught by the prophets like Micah and Isaiah, the ways and paths of the God of Jacob; that is, the revealed laws and maxims of the kingdom of God, whose religion has now come to be recognized as universal. All this is to come about, not by force of arms, but as a great moral conquest. The nations therefore retain their political independ-

3. He will judge-Jehovah is to be the final arbiter, to whom are submitted all disputes for his just and impartial judgment, and his decisions are to be accepted as irreversible. The result will be the cessation of war among the nations, a blessing of the Messianic era which is often dwelt upon by the prophets. The transformation of swords and spears into agricultural implements shows how real this period of universal peace is to be. The people of the country, whose spokesman Micah is for the time being, are to pursue their accustomed labors unmolested. When the true religion fills their hearts, they will not think it necessary to preserve peace by the construction of costly battleships and menacing fertifications. The arsenals and navy-yards will be silent, and the mechanics will have gone back to the cultivation of the Rubber consumption has kept so closely on the heels of rubber production, and the price of the gum has risen so rapidly in the last few years, that nothing could be more welcome to the automobile man and the manufacturer of rubber goods than the discovery of a synthetic rubber or some practicable substitute for rubber in its various uses. CHEAP TELEPHONE SERVICE.

British Post Office Takes Over the Country's System.

By the end of the year the British Post Office will take over the management of the country's telephone system from the private company which has hitherto controlled it, and the British public does not regard this particular nationalization project entirely without misgivings especially in view of the fact that the direct control by the State of the country's telegraphs has resulted in a loss of $50,000,-000 in the last fory years and that the present annual loss is well over $5,000,000. Business men are afraid that red tape will hamper the quick and cheap telephone scrvice that everyone wants.

Almost every European country has secured a cheaper and better telephone service in the last few years than England has done, said G. Dalzell Read, a telephone authority, who is in London, after having inspected the German, Danish and Swedish systems.

"A telephone at $10 a year is not an impossible dream, but it is a perfectly sound business proposal if the systems continue to expand at the present rate. In Denmark, already, outside Copenhagen, the annual subscription for small exchanges is $11 and additional calls may be obtained at the rate of $5.50 per 1,000 calls. "Sweden, too, has a most efficient and moderate priced telephone service with more than 200,-The installation 000 subscribers. charge for a private house is only $4 with an annual subscription of $16.50.

Sam Elwood was a very big, very bashful and very good-looking young fellow of perhaps 23 years. He lived with his father and mother on a Missouri farm, and, since a paralytic stroke had permanently disabled the elder man two years before, the work of the 200-acre place had fallen into Sam's capable hands. The one thing Sam feared was a girl.

"If any girl wants Sam she'll have to do the courting," Mrs. Elwood once remarked, unaware that the youth in question was within earshot. "Sam'd never in within earshot. "Sam'd never in this world screw his courage to the popping point."

This assertion was so true that Sam's ears tingled whenever he thought of it. It had grown to be a very sensitive matter by the time a distant connection of the family came to visit at the farm.

When he heard that the visitor was a young woman he groaned in anguish of mind. He planned to keep out of her way as much as possible, eating his breakfast from -The the pantry shelves, taking his dinner to the field with him and skirmishing for his supper.

He didn't know just how he could avoid aitting at table with her on Sunday. He thought seriously of staying in bed all of Sunday. The one objection to that was the extra trouble it would cause his mother

"Sammy, it's a shame you act so unsociable," remonstrated his mother, at the end of the first first week, when the only glimpse of himself Sam had permitted the guest was two inches of vanishing tailcoats, out of the kitchen door, the third morning after her arrivant about you."

"Shucks!" muttered Sam, his ears tingling familiarly as he grabbed a paper bag of small cakes from the pantry shelf and fled up-stairs, a light step outside the kitchen door having warned him of the need of haste in his supper raid "Got to fill up the hollows with cookies to-night, I guess," he sighed, when the door was safely shut and he was gingerly examining the unusually tidy appearance of his room. "'Ma's getting real fancy in her old age," he commented, staring respectfully at the crisp white curtain tied back with rose-patterned ribbon at both sides of the how-eople some, too," he went on, as he turn-te for ed back the covers. "Jiminy! Clean sheets and pillow cases when I haven't had 'em on more'n a week! Ma certainly is getting will fixy. I guess I'd better scrub up some to match the other clean things. The girl said no more. Her energies were occupied in dosing the patient with mustard and warm water, applying hot water bottles to his feet and an ice water bag to his head.

At the end of a strenuous hour. Sam was resting much better and his nurse felt safe in leaving him for the remainder of the night.

What Sam's experience taught him during the time he lay there, tormented with pain, watching the sympathetic face of the zealous litt.e nurse as she flew in and out of the room with hot water, mustard, and one thing and another for his betterment, was evinced by his conduct toward the young visitor during the remainder of her stay.

Looks mighty like Sam sprucing up like other fellows, ma," remarked Sam's father, afma, ter his son had spent fifteen minutes before the hall mirror in a vain endeavor to get his tie to suit "I don't know but what he'll be plenty able to do his own courting by the time Virginia comes again.

And Sam, with tingling ears, stoutly intimated his opinion that he would.

HEALTH

ADENOIDS AGAIN.

While taking one's walks abroad it is strange to see how many children are still being allowed to grow up with untreated adenoids. does not seem possible that any parent can remain uninstructed on this subject, so thoroughly has it been exposed to the general pub-And yet almost every little while is an introduction to some poor little child whose mouth will not shut, whose teeth are growing in crooked, and who is the victim of an everlasting "cold in the head.

To render the matter even more inexplicable is the fact that the child is more often than not of well-todo parentage. In such a case the father and mother must know that they are deliberately depriving their child of its fair chance; that they are subjecting it to innumerable dangers in the present, and laying the foundations for certain draw backs in the future, all of which could be prevented by a very simple operation, which it is their duty to have performed at once.

On questioning some of these guilty parents, the most extraordinary answers are forthcoming. Oh, yes, they are quite awake to the dangers of adenoids! They are only "waiting" to have it done. "No. Bobby never has his mouth shut.

A MANURE SPREADER.

The modern manure spreader is built so as to give sufficient capa city for a large load and unless the ground is dry and level three or four horses should be attached so that we may facilitate the work.

Owning a manure spreader stimulates us to get the manure out as fast as it is made, preventing all loss from heating and washing. It spreads the manure more evenly than it could be done by hand, so that it covers more acres with the same good effect to the land sovered that it would have if a large amount were applied by hand.

We have found during the recent years that there is a loss of fertility when manure is spread in too The maaure large quantities. spreader is a great economizer of labor, which is a very important item to be considered at the present time.

In buying a manure spreader we should note very carefully tow strongly it is built at the places where the wear and tear will be the greatest when the macnine is in operation. It should distribute all kinds of manure evenly. There should be the same quantities spread on the outside as in the center of the space being covered.

This is a very important point to be considered in selecting a machine. With any make of spreader care should be exercised in loading if the machine is to do its best field work. It will pay every man to investigate these points before he buys a machine. On the average stock farm the machine is a good investment.

POINTS OF A DAIRY COW.

The five points to be observed in selecting a good dairy cow was the subject of a recent address made by O. C. Gregg at the Saint Johns Farmers' Institute.

First-Large body and especially middle piece, indicating a capacity for eating and digesting a lot of Second-Thinly fleshed backbone and especially back of shoulders. This indicates that the food is not made into flesh.

NOTES OF HOG RAISING.

If you are quite sure that alfalte will not grow on your land, try Essex rape. It makes fine hog pasture—some farmers even going as far as to say that it beats clover, which, of course, it does not.

A lousy pig is a sure sign-of a poor farmer. Once thoroughly intested, the only way to get rid of the vermin is to dip the pig with some good disenfectant.

In dipping pigs great care must be exercised to cover every part of his body from tail to snout. If a patch as big as a thumbnail is left untouched it may contain the nucleus of a new crop.

Many farmers use a boar of dif-ferent breed of that of their sows to produce a cross. Sometimes this is good practice for the first cross, but the sows from such a cross should never be bred.

"Come in." he called, weakly, when the longed-for knock sounded on the door. "Do hurry for mercy's sake!'

The door swung slowly open, as if the knocker were strangely reluctant to enter. This is nonsense. In the meantime Bobby cannot breathe through his nose, the shape of his face is being spoiled for life, his toeth are coming in wrong, he is already a little deaf, and has repeated attacks of asthma. Is it any wonder that he is delicate?

It would take a long time even to enumerate the bad symptoms that may come from adenoids, but it may certainly be accepted as an axiom that any children who have them are below par physically and mentally. They are unable to get enough oxygen for the needs either of body or of mind, and consequently lag behind normal children in their development. They are also very susceptible to infections, and at the same time quite unfit to battle with them.

"Quite so," said the gentleman. "But"-indicating the second one-"might not this one be this also?" "It might," replied the girl; "but then that one would be that."

"And how do you manage to separate them?"

"We put one in one room, and the other in another."

"Indeed! And which one do you put in one room?"

"Sometimes this one, and some-times that."

"And how do you know which one you're putting in which room?"

"We look and see which one is in the other room, and then we know that the other is in this room."

Good!" said the gentleman. "But if one of them was in the house, and the other was away somewhere, would you be able to

The Canadian Pacific Railway, it is announced, will open up in the spring fifty new towns situated on branch lines. The great Northwest is becoming one of the settled countries of the world. The necessities for "roughing it" are growing less. To-day the traveller finds a far different country from that described by J. A. Lees and W. J. Among some of the anecdotes related by them is the following. is the old story of the tenderfoot, but with a new ending.

A Britisher, settled out there, appeared one Sunday in a "stovepipe" hat. The citizens expressed their appreciation by pouncing out of corners and other places of van-tage, and bonneting the unfortun-ate wearer. The first "topper" was thus reduced to pulp. However, it flat down on the hat with wonderful emphasis. The populace yelled with delight. The joker yel-

THE FRIENDSHIP OF GOD

The Secret Springs of Friendship are Wholly Mysterious

"I call you not servants, but and any of the prescriptions of the friends."-Jesus.

When a man says friendship I I am prouder of liking my friends think he utters the deepest word in than of any other of my small virhuman speech. It ranks even a tues. When I think of Bill and little higher than love, being a sort Lige and Al and Ralph and Newt I of unselfed love, love with the itch get a kind of warmth about the and hunger extracted.

We do not love our friends: we like them. We love our children, wife and parents, and kinfolks. We like apples and custard pie and a cozy fire and a good bed and slippers-and our friend.

Like goes farther in than love. Like is a voice from the subconscious self, a cry from the inward and unknown me. It lies behind the will, beneath the judgment, in the far darkness of our secret soul.

It do not say that a wife cannot be also a friend; but she rarely is; she is usually an enemy, to whom we are most passionately attached. And if she be a friend, then that friendship has grown up from other sources, and is of a different texture and quality from the sex motives which make marriages. Not many women would tolerate comradeship from a husband. Perhaps this is as it should be, and nature needs hercer fires for her

Marks of Identity Have Sent Men to the Scaffold or Saved One From It.

On September 11th, 1875, a man, who carried two parcels wrapped in American cloth, was arrested in the Borough, London. One parcel was found to contain the trunk, and the other held the remaining parts of a human body.

The doctors set to work, and found that the victim was a woman of about twenty-five years, measuring 4ft. 11 1-8in., of slender build, with small hands and feet, and with light colored hair. She might be any one of a million people, says London Answers.

But a tooth was missing from the right upper law, and a scar from a burn was found on the leg below the knee

This was the famous Wainwright case. Relatives of Harriet Lane came forward. A year previously she had been seen going into Wainhad been seen going into wright's premises, and never seen again. They said her age was twenty-four, her height 5ft. 0 1-4in. and that she was generally as the doctors drscribed. The features were quite unrecognizable; but they testified to the mising tooth, and the scar on the leg, caused by a poker. It was these two trifles which proved the identity, and

CONVICTED THE PRISONER.

Some years ago near the village of Ringstead, in Northamptonshire, a laborer, digging in a lane, found the skeleton of a woman. The doctors said she must have been of middle age, was buried be-tween twelve and twenty years before the discovery, and had lost the first grinder tooth of the left lower jaw.

Then it was recalled that fourteen years previously the wife of a man living in the neighborhood had suddenly disappeared. witnesses swore that on the evening of the disappearance the husband and wife went quarrelling inheard to say, "I believe you mean killing me to-night." Everyone thought him guilty at the time, but there were to their orchard, and she was but there was no legal evidence.

The wife was of middle age, about the same height as the skeleton and had disappeared about the time the doctors said the body was buried. Then a dentist came forward, saw the jaw, and swore that he had drawn just such a tooth—a tooth rarely drawn—from the missing woman two weeks before she had disappeared.

This seemed conclusive evidence. But a certain fact led the Court to order another digging of the ground, and eighteen inches deeper they came upon

HOLLINGER PLANT BURNED.

Other Property in Porcupine Distriet also Suffered.

A despatch from Porcupine says: Ignited by the bush fires, the dynamite magazine on the Hollinger property exploded, breaking the pipes, and the whole plant was gutted by the flames. Mr. L. K. Timmins, who is here, said that the loss on the Hollinger property is 870,000. The buildings on the Mc-Intyre property have also been burned. The district around Pearl Lake has been swept by the flames, and the settlement around Aura Lake has been completely wiped out. Two houses and a general store were burned at South Porcupine. The schoolhouse at Porcupine, reported burned on Friday night, was saved. Construction gangs on the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway fought the fires on the right of way. It rained hard on Friday night, and this considerably checked the flames. All the fires were out by Saturday night.

Situation as a Whole is Decidedly Encouraging.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Excellent crop weather throughout the three prairie Provinces has provided a great stimulus in business circles. The volume of general trade has shown a large but fairly steady increase since the rains came two weeks ago. It is generally recognized now that the crop situation as a whole is decidedly encouraging, and there is abundant justification for the belief that the results at harvest time will be very satisfactory. In a region such as Western Canada, where so much depends upon the welfare of the agricultural community, favorable crop reports are received with enthusiasm, and the fine outlook that is now presented naturally causes great activity in business.

Women are everywhere, next to nowhere, in the modern business office. And according to those in a position to judge, every indication points to a still greater supersession of men by girls in city offices in the next ten years.

The head of the employment department of the London Chamber of Commerce, on being asked for his opinion on this state of affairs, explained that there is one great difference between the sexes in this question of office employment.

Train, however, left the ground. Ascending swiftly, he circled the great field, curving round to the starting line, and then flying down the course at a fifty-mile-an-hour gait, the machine rocking in the gusty wind. Train's monoplane swooped toward the earth under the impulse of an air flurry, and it appeared as though the aviator were about to dash into the cavalry. The pilot's attention seemed momentarily to have been diverted from his course, and he made a quick turn to the left, toward where the party of officials were standing. Then he lost control of the craft altogether, and it dashed violently into the Ministerial group.

A scene of frightful confusion followed the fall of the monoplane. From all parts of the aviation field arose cries of alarm and dismay, and tens of thousands of persons broke through the lines and moved toward the scene of the accident. The cavalry, however, by repeated charges, managed to clear the field. and the injured men were given first aid by the field surgeons. From the first it was seen that M. Everybody said it was murder. An inquest was held, and owing to some carelessness, the skeleton was taken for that of the missing man. But a keen-eved doctor who happened to be present asked permis sion to examine it. And, instead of being the remains of a tall young man, he found it to be the skeleton of an old and very, small woman. On further investigation it was shown that the remains came from an old gravel pit used by the gipsies as a burying place.

In London, some years ago, a wo-man was found dead in the morn-ing. Her skull was fractured, and two dents in the bone corresponded exactly with the claws of a hammer found in the house. As she was known to have frequent quarrels with her husband, he was arrested, and charged with murder.

THE DENTED BONNET

In defence, he produced witness ses who swore that the woman had fallen in the street the night before. But this would have served him little, if someone had not thought of examining her bounet. The bonnet was found, and there, too, were the two dents. More-over these dents were filled with street mud, and by this trifle the innocent man was saved from the scaffold.

At Bodmin, some time ago, blood and a few hairs were found on a stone beside the dead body of a woman sent a man to the scaffold He had been seen with the same stone in his hand some time before the deed.

On the other hand, a hammer with blood and hairs was found under the bed of a man charged with murder, and he would have stood little chance of escape but that a doctor proved that the hairs were those of a goat.

Stunts the New Boys In Some Banks Have to Face

Now, when a tyro goes to work in a machine shop he is sent to the tool room for a left handed monkey wrench A foundry wag will send the new boy in search of "core holes." A printer's devil is sent to the typefounders with a wheelbarrow for a hair space. Hpmorists in certain Kansas City banks have a revised code, says the Times of that city.

Here are six things the beginner probably will be required to seek-at drug stores, in stationery shops, even at the county courthouse, where one trustful youth went the other day to inquire diligently for a "speed ball" to assist him in his work:

There is the "speed ball," then, and there is the "check stretcher," presumably used to increase the size of checks that do not conform to the filing cases; the "discount board," supposed to be checkered in a manner to facilitate the handling of discounted paper; the "clearing house key," in search for which half a day easily may be consumed, and for the red and black lines that lie artistically on the fair pages what could be more appropriate than "striped ink," and lest the ink becomes too thick should not an "ink strainer" be procured?

Ask the new boy.

Tissot, the Famous French Painter, and His Critic.

An interesting story is told of Jacques Tissot, the great French painter. While in England he painted a beautiful religious picture and, meeting a countrywoman, asked her opinion of his work. "It's a chef d'oeuvre," she replied, giving a remarkably just and detailed appreciation of the vari-ous merits of the really splendid paint-

"Are you satisfied?" asked a friend. Tissot answered in the negative. He entirely repainted his picture, working night and day.

When finished he sent again for his fair critic, who pronounced it admirable and remained silently admiring it with smiling criticism.

"Are you satisfied?" asked the friend again when the lady had departed. "No," replied the artist, and he set to work for the third time.

When the Parisienne saw the new painting she gazed at it for some moments with evident emotion and then without a word sank softly to her knees and began to pray.

"Are you satisfied now?" whispered the friend, and Tissot said "Yes."-London Saturday Review.

THE ROAD TO BALTIMORE.

It Was Over Floating Bridges In the Old. Old Days.

The road to Baltimore is over the lowest of three floating bridges which have been thrown across the Schuylkill river in the neighborhood of Philadelphia. The view on passing this river, which is about 250 yarus wide. is beautiful. The banks on each side are high and for many miles above afford the most delightful situations of villas. A very elegant one, laid out in English taste, is seen on passing the river just above the bridge. Adjoining to it are public gardens and a house of entertainment with several good rooms, to which the citizens of Philadelphia resort in great numbers during the summer seasons.

The floating bridges are formed of large trees, which are placed in the water transversely and are chained together. Beams are then laid lengthways upon these and the whole boarded over to render the way convenient for passengers. On each side there is a railing. When very beavy carriages go across these bridges they sink a few fuches below the surface of the water, but the passage is by no means dangerous. They are kept in an even direction across the river by means of chains and anchors in different parts and are also strongly secured on both shores. Over that part of the river where the channel lies they are so contrived that a piece can be removed to allow vessels to pass through .-From "Travels Through the States of North America," by Isaac Weld, Jr.,

In Verdheres, Quebec, the word postoffice" was painted on the front of a Government building, whereupon the French population metaphorically rose in arms, formed a procession with teachers and priests at its head, held a meeting in the public square, the burden of the speeches being the glorification of the French tongue, and at the conclusion of which the offending sign was removed and this substituted : "Bureau de Poste." And this in British Canada!

Brantford Expositor.

Thus we will have the formal admission of the Conservative Minister of Finance of the day that from the time of the abrogation of the old reciprocity treaty "hardly a year had passed" without formal overtures on the part of the Canadian Government to secure reciprocity. What one fails to comprehend is why a policy which both political parties in Canada approved until recently should have so suddenly become the very incarnation of evil. The change of front on the part of the Conservative party is so sudden as to carry conviction of its insincerity.

Another great forward step has been taken by the Dominion Government in acquiring the branch railways in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia as feeders for the Intercolonial. The taking over of these branches was the logical thing to do and it should immensely improve the position of the Intercolonial. linking up of the branches in Nova Scotia, the line from New Glasgow to Thorburn, and the Cape Breton Railway from Point Tupper to St. Peter's and its probable extension through to Louisburg and Sydney, with the Government road, will be a great advantage for those sections of the Province.

African Giants.

There are many giants in Africa nine feet high. Some of them weigh 300 pounds and are strong enough to kill a panther at one blow. Perhaps you think such big fellows must be clumsy, but they are not. They can run faster than any horse, springing twelve to fourteen feet at a leap. This all sounds like a fairy story, but not so when you hear that these African giants areostriches.

The captain protested and offered to drop it into the sea, but the officials were obdurate. They seized the ship and demanded payment. The captain declined to ease the tension by the customary bribe and complained to the British foreign office.

"The duty was returned, but the captain was warned to be very careful about contraband, and for several voyages nothing occurred. Several months later some slight inaccuracy in the ship's papers and the declaration of cargo gave the excisemen their chance, and the vessel was not allowed to leave until a heavy fine, corresponding to the original propeller duty, was paid."

Mount Etna.

Mount Etna is one of the great volcanoes of the earth. It is great in size, great in activity, great in beauty. In size it would cover the entire metropolitan district of New York and the surrounding counties. Its height is 11.000 feet above sea level. As to its power, one of these eruptions some centuries ago killed 80,000 people, which is probably more than Vesuvius has ever done in all its existence as a volcano, not excepting the great eruption of 79 A. D., which destroyed the cities of Herculaneum and Pompeil. As to its beauty, this is also very difficult to describe. It is teeming with life, animal and vegetable, and is snow covered one-half the year. The other half it is bare to its very summit.-Christian Herald.

More Marked Ir. Mongrels Than In Dogs With Pedigrees,

I generally find, writes a well known English scientist, that mongrel dogs when they happen to be sociable have a keen sense of humor. Passed the Bottle Too Quickly.

Will Low, the painter, told this stery of the Latin quarter days of Robert Louis Stevenson. Low and Stevenson were great friends in their youth. Their friendship indeed continued up to the time of the writer's death.

"Louis," said the artist, "was no less diplomatic than brave. He could be flery, and he could also be gracious and pacific. One night, I remember, we sat in a garden in Montmartre. The red wine had been flowing pretty freely, and one member of our party got heated and aggressive. Finally some one said a thing that this fighting chap disliked. As soon as the words were spoken he grabbed up a bottle and burled it at the other's head. It was a strong, true shot and would have bit the mark had not Stevenson sprung to his feet and caught the missile.

"'Tut. tut, George,' he said to the thrower-'tut, tut! If the bottle is passed so quickly none of us will be able to stand out the evening."

Once I took into the house out of pity a mongrel yellow dog who insisted on installing himself at my doorstep and always came back, no matter how often he was chased away. I had at that time a pedigreed water spaniel, and I tried to teach him some tricks when I took him out along a quiet road at times. The yellow dog, who made friends with him always came along and heat the water spaniel at his own tricks without training. Then be be gan to play tricks of his own on the spaniel. When he had a bone he looked out for his comrade, and when he saw him loping along he would lay the bone in his path and disappear. The spaniel always made for the bone, but the yellow dog, just as he was about to grab it, would dart from his hiding place and, seizing it, run off with it. This happened over and over again, but the high bred spaniel never tumbled to the joke .- New York World.

TEN KINDS OF MONEY.

But Not All of Uncle Sam's Assortment is Legal Tender.

Uncle Sam officially has ten kinds of money—gold coins, standard silver dollars, subsidiary silver, gold certificates, silver certificates, treasury (1890) notes, United States (greenbacks) notes, national bank notes, nickel coins and bronze coins—says the Indianapolis News. While some of this paper currency is not legal tender, minor coins are legal tender in small amount. Legal tender is so called because in payment of a debt or obligation of any kind it can be forced on the creditor "in full of all demand."

Gold certificates, silver certificates and national bank notes, despite the enormous quantity in circulation, are not legal tender. So far as silver coin is conjectned, only $10 worth of "halves." "quarters" and "dimes" are legal tender, and, as to nickel and coper coins, only 25 cents can be forced on the creditor. However, with the standard silver dollar there is no limit to the amount to be paid in liquidation of a claim. The creditor can refuse the silver certificate, but when it comes to the "dollar of the dads" the dollar must be received at its face value, even if a thousand weigh 58.92 pounds.

Confirmed His Suspicion.

Ben Nathan, the English humorist, on returning home from a visit to this country was expatiating to a friend upon the giories of California. After listening patiently the friend said:

"But there must be some disadvantages in living there?"

"No," said Mr. Nathan, "it is a perfectly ideal place. For any man who will work"— will work"—

"Ah," broke in the friend, "I knew there were some disadvantages!"

Why Business Fell Off.

Two London business men were talking when a seedy individual came up and spoke to one of them. After he had gone the one to whom he had spoken said to his friend: "That's shorther of mine and about the most unfortunate fellow in the world. I have set him up in business three times. The last time I bought a pork shop business for him in a place called Barking. After a few weeks he wrote and said the business had all dropped off. Would I come up? I went, and the first thing that caught my eye was a ticket in the window inviting the public to Try Our Barking Sansages."

Winkie order. Thackeray, Dickens, John Beech, Jerrold, Lemon, Ibbotson, were invited, and carriages were reserved to Watford. As we were starting a written excuse was brought from Dickens to be conveyed to Mrs. X. by Thackeray. The party drove up to the house, and after compliments Thackeray delivered the billet. The effect was unpleasant. Mrs. X. fied along the hall, and the guests heard her calling to the cook: 'Martin, don't roast the ortolans; Mr. Dickens isn't coming.'

"Thackeray said be never felt so small. 'There's a test of popularity for you! No ortolans for Pendennis!"

Hannibal's Downfall.

The fate of Hannibal turned upon the result of a promenade. It was after he had crossed the Alps and entered Italy, with winter quarters established at Capua. His residence was one of the best houses in the ctity, and while walking in the garden he heard a female voice singing not far away. Struck by the tones of the voice, he issued an order that the singer should be brought before him. He was so greatly impressed by her charms that he at once attached her to his household, disposing of the husband by beheading him. Retribution followed closely upon the cowardly perpetration of the outrage. The balance of the winter was devoted to pleasure, discipline and drills were practically abandoned, and with the advent of spring the Carthaginian army was so demoralized by the dissipation of the city that its prestige was lost, and with it came the downfall of Hannibal.

The Sara-Kabbah Fashien.

The Sara-Kabbah people of central Africa adopt the hideous fashion of wearing large wooden disks in the hips, the one in the upper lip about three inches in diameter and that in the lower six inches. "These ornaments," says Mr. Karl W. Kumm in "From Hausaland to Egypt," "restrain the wearers from prolonged conversation. One of the chiefs, when I asked him the reason why they disfigured their women, informed me that their forefathers had developed this habit in order that the women might exercise no attractions for the Moslem slave raiders."

Warning a Serpent

Down in Bermuda Mark Twain made a speech about snakes to a group of little girls. The speech was great. The only trouble was that the little girls could not appreciate it. It flew over their heads. This was the humorist's conclusion:

"Never warm a serpent in your bosom. It is far easier to warm it by placing it under the pillow of an intimate friend."—Harper's Weekly.

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause sore-ness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. Iam stronger, digestion is bet ter, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suf-fering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass. invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

The Caddie's Comment.

They were out together in the early morning and had the golf links to themselves. A curious pair—a portly city merchant new to the game, with an immense idea of his own skill and importance, and his caddie, a typical street gamin, small, but sharp as a needle. The desperate efforts of his employer to make a record drive caused the caddie some arms and with the caddie some amusement, mingled with pity and contempt, yet he held his peace. At last, however, after the novice had plowed up the turf all around the ball without moving it, the gamin blurted out

"Guv'nor, if I'd known you was coming to dig for worms I'd ha' brought a spade We'd ha' done it quicker."—London Tit-Bits.

Minute Jellwfish.

In the northern was there exists an extremely minute pellyfish, termed Lizzia koelikeri, which are so transparent that a single individual can ecarcely be seen in clear water and so small that a wineglass of water contain 3,000 of them. Yet this fellyfish occurs in such numbers off the coast of Greenland that the sea is at times tinged brown by its pres-

An Old Delusion.

Father of the Fair One-How can you possibly think of marrying my daughter? You say that by the strictest economy you can save only $10 a month! Poor but Worthy Poet-Oh, yes, but if we both save it will be $201 -Meggendorfer Blatter.

The Man of Leisure. Most of our rich men work very hard -not always because they want to, but in many instances because they have to. The husbandry of a big estate in itself may be a task for the whole of the time and thought, not of one man, but of several. As a general thing it is fair to say that our only man of leisure is the tramp. The social parish, the mutineer against the rule of work, is the only one who can be sure of a care free, sybaritic existence, and even he lives in constant danger of rock sait from the farmer's gun or the onslaught of the watchdog around the corner as the hobo knocks at the kitchen door or pauses at the water trough to drink. The poor tramp is certainly a more frequent social phenomenon than the rich one.-Philadeiphia Ledger.

The Earl and the Angler.
One of the earls of Minto had a kindly nature. One day a Hawick angler was throwing his line on the river near Minto when a tail gentleman came up to him and inquired what kind of sport he was having. The fisher replied that it was not very good and that he could do better if he were at the other side of the water, adding, "I'll gi'e ye sixpence if ye'll carry me across." The bargain was struck, and the gentleman, getting the angier on his back, carried him through the water to the other side. True to his promise, the angler produced the sixpence, which he proffered to the stranger, who, however, smiled and remarked, "Give it to the first beggar you meet and tell him it is a present from the Bari of Minto."

Why She Worried.

"But, mother, why do you object to my being pleasant to the young men? You can't hope to keep me with you always, you know. One of them will take me away from you some day."

"Take you away from me? Well, if that happens I shall not complain. It is the certainty that none of the young men who have been coming here so far would take you away that has worried both your father and me."-Ohicago Record-Herald.

The Chatham Chest.

Carefully preserved at Greenwich (England) hospital is the famous Chatham chest It is a great box curiously wrought, its iron body being crossed and recrossed by strengthening bands of steel. It was the nearest approach the artificers of Elizabeth's age ever made to the modern iron safe and was worked with special care, since it was the repository of the funds of the great naval charity. In 1683 it was felt that something should be done for England's disabled sailors who had so nobly upheld her prestige on the sea against practically the whole world. So the Chatham chest was instituted.

Strictly Business.

"To whom do you wish to make your benefit certificate payable?" asked the officer of the fraternal order.

"To my sweetheart," said the candidate for initiation.

"According to the laws of our order you'll have to marry her first."

'Say, hold up this initiation about fifteen minutes and I'll go and attend to that."-Spokane Spokesman-Review.

PLAYING A WITNESS.

Methods of Two Famous Cross Examiners of the Irish Bar.

Two famous cross examiners at the Irish bar, says Francis L. Wellman in "The Art of Cross Examination," were Sergeant Sullivan, afterward master of the rolls in Ireland, and Sergeant of the Shia World." The doctor was Armstrong. Barry O'Brien in his "Life of Lord Russell" describes their the vakil ul mulk: methods with perjured witnesses.

"Sullivan," he says, "approached the witness quite in a friendly way, seemed to be an impartial inquirer seeking information, looked surprised at what the witness said, appeared even grateful for the additional light thrown on the case.

"'Ah indeed! Well as you have said so much perhaps you can help us a little further. Well, really, my lord, this is a very intelligent man.'

"So playing the witness with caution and skill, drawing him stealthily on, keeping him completely in the dark about the real point of attack, the 'little sergeant' waited until the man was in the meshes and then flew at him and shook him as a terrier would a rat.

"The big sergeant (Armstrong) had more humor and more power, but less dexterity and resource. His great weapon was ridicule. He laughed at the witness and made everybody else laugh. The witness got confused and lost his temper, and then Armstrong pounded him like a champion in the ring."

Some of the ancient cries have been collected by Frederick W. Hackwood in his book, "The Good Old Times." They include "Cherry Ripe, O!" "Baking or Boiling Apples:" "Green hastings" (these were early peas); "Lavender, sweet lavender, six bunches a penny," or perhaps "Rabbits, wild rabbits," and when there was a good catch of fish it might be "Mackerel, O!" or "Herrings, alive, all alive!"

"Some of the cries," writes Mr. Hackwood, "would sound strange to the ear now, as 'Bandboxes,' 'Bas-'Buy a broom,' 'Hair brooms,' 'Hot spiced gingerbread,' 'Brick dust,' 'Sand, O!' 'Bellows to mend,' 'Chairs to mend, 'Bill of the play.' More familiar perhaps were 'Old clothes,' 'Cats and dogs' meat' and 'Dust O!'

Deceived by a Cloud.

The instinct of animals is sometimes supposed to be more infallible than human reason, but a scientist's observations of the katydid rather contradict that opinion. The katydid, with its musical membranes, produces two distinct "songs," one peculiar to the night and familiar to everybody, the other a daytime tune, which is rather a rasp than a melody. According to the scientist mentioned, it is sometimes quite comical to hear the singers suddenly change their tune when a dark cloud obscures the sun, immediately resuming their daytime song when it has passed. This recalls the hens that go to roost during a solar eclipse.

"'Surely,' I said, 'these are not all losses that have occurred since I was here two hours ago?'

The writer thinks that "losses" is scarcely the right word to use. She relates the case of another Englishwoman who was robbed of $1,600 in the same way as herself. Dubious Work.

Many years ago when Colonel Fro bel of Atlanta was called on to gauge the water in a neighboring stream 'ne one day had an amusing encounter with an old farmer who came along on a wood cart drawn by an ox.

When he reached the colonel he stopped the cart and inquired peremptorily: "What on 'arth are them men doin' thar?"

"They are trying to find out how many bucketfuls of water run down this creek in twenty-four hours," said the colonel.

"Mister, are that a true fact?" asked the farmer.

"Yes; that's just what it is," said the colonel.

"Well, mister," said the old man in a tone of much disapproval and anxiety, "it mought be all right, but it do appear to me such doin's are onconstituotional."-Youth's Companion.

KENTISH KNOCK IS PITILESS.

This Treacherous Spot Is the Real Davy Jones' Locker-No Hope For Vessel or Man When Neptune Asks Toll at This Submarine Graveyard.

"Davy Jones' locker," that perilous spot mention of which so often comes from the lips of sailors, is not shown on any ocean chart principally because it is not really a settled place, but if any ocean death trap deserved the title it is the Thames estuary.

The British naval authorities have a chart upon which is marked the position of wrecks, shown by black dots. On this chart the Thames mouth tract is a solid black spot. So numerous have been the wrecks the dots run together. The point where the black dots actually pile the one on the top of another is the Kentish Knock, and this is the place among all of the ocean danger spots that deserves the title of Davy Jones' locker.

At the Kentish Knock it is not keel shattering rocks nor piercing points of coral that wreck the ocean travelers. It is sand-treacherous, clinging sand -that grasps the doomed ship with a grip of steel and holds it firmly while the angry sea beats it to fragments. Many a vessel posted at Lloyd's as missing would be duly accounted for if the Knock sand would give up its prey. There is no hope for ship or man when Neptune asks toll at the Kentish Knock, for the nearest land is twenty miles away and the nearest tifeboat at Margate, thirty miles distant.

The sands of the ocean are far more dangerous than rocks. The sand banks extend over more space and therefore offer more points of contact than the rocks, which usually rise in slender pinnacles. The waters flow over the sands in smooth waves, and there are no warning breakers

Next to the Thames mouth tract in point of danger is the Hooghly, the salt water river on which Calcutta stands. The most trying part of a large vessel's voyage from New York to Calcutta is the last few miles of this calm river. In this strange stream, in windless weather and flat calm water, vessels have been lost-dashed to pieces on the dreaded ever shifting sand banks by the force of the tides

The sands grasp the keel of the marked vessel and she stops. But the tide moves on with relentless force. and the helpless ship is carried over on her beam ends. She careens over and founders with all on board. One of the worst shoals in the Hooghly bears the name of James and Mary. This was the name of a great Indian merchant ship wrecked on the sunken mand banks.

Another danger point dreaded by the master mariner has neither sand nor rocks, but a great submarine water In the English channel there is a point just beyond the Shambles bank where there is a sudden drop in the sea bottom. The channel tides sween over the banks and down this sudden drop, creating rapids equal in fury to those of Niagara. All Canadian Government Annuities are payable for life no matter how long the Annuitant may live, but the Guaranteed Annuity, that is an Annuity which for a slightly increased payment is guaranteed to be paid for 10, 15 or 20 years as may be should the Annuitant die before the period mentioned had expired, enables a purchaser to provide for the contingency that someone may be dependent upon him at the time the Annuity falls due. For example, a man 75 years of age recently purchased an Immediate Annuity of $300 to be guaranteed for ten years for which he paid $2,643. If he should die at, say, 80, the $300 a year will be paid to his heirs for the remaining five years, but in any case he will receive the Annuity as long as he lives should he live to be one hundred or more. This means in other words that the sum of $3,000 is guaranteed to be paid whether he lives or dies. The $2,643 had been invested at 6 percent, and was yielding an income of $158.58; so that his in-come is now almost double that which he formerly received. Literaturefully explaining the Annuities scheme as applicable to both young and old may T. Bastedo. be had by writing to S. T. Bastedo, Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters go free of postage.

Their Usefulness Is Not Gone Just Because You Have Read Them.

The mere fact that moths cannot read is no reason why they should detest newspapers, but they do nevertheless. It isn't exactly the newspaper or its editorial policy that moths dislike. It's the ink used in printing the type that makes the moths stay away. LAST OF THE YAQUIS.

Passing of a Once Famous Tribe of Mexican Indians.

All the world has heard of the famous Yaqui Indians of the state of Sonora, Mexico. They are for the most part dwellers in the hills, crudely armed with primitive weapons, but terrific fighters who have more than once decisively beaten the soldiers of Mexico.

Peaceable when undisturbed, fully alive to the richness of their mines and the value of their fertile valleys. they sought only to defend that which was theirs from the grasping hands of those who desired their mines and their lands. Like most aborigines, however, they were doomed from the first. What was at the time of Cortes a tribe of 5,000 strong, able to defy the warriors of Montezuma, has dwindled until there are now not more than 500 souls in the valley of the Yaqui river and in the mountain gorges which wall in the source of this stream.

The bulk of the Yaquis have been wiped out in sanguinary wars or taken prisoners and shot, and those for whom no excuse for death could be found have been deperted to the fever stricken vales of Yucatan. The Yaquis as a race are no more, but their passing has been made complete only during the past few years .- Wide World Mag-

Ships bound to New York from Europe pass near a deadly hidden shoal which runs out from Sable island, lying off Cape Sable, in Nova Scotia The snoal runs out for miles in five directions, like the fingers of a great hand reaching out for what it can destroy.

When the gales blow heavy seas boom upon the shoals with sufficient force to shatter the stanchest vesse! affoat, and when the wind ceases the beaches are strewn with the bodies of those who have perished. The distance from the shore is too great and the surf too heavy for the life savers to reach a struggling vessel, and few lives are saved at this point. Ten vessels have been wrecked in this trap in a single week.

The rocky danger points in the ocean have nearly all been classified, and lighthouses have been erected on the most dangerous—except one. There is no lighthouse on the Virgin rock, and there never will be.

Out in the mid-Atlantic this giant pinnacle rears its head up from the ocean floor and valuely seeks to reach the surface of the sea. It is short by about eighteen feet. There it stands, with its sharp point hidden by the ocean waves, waiting to pierce the bottom of some unsuspecting vessel and send it down to Join the pile of ships' ribs and dead men's bones that litter the floor around its base.

The waves seem to be in league with the rock, for if a vessel of light draft tries to pass over its head the waves drop it down into a trough at the bottom of which the point of the rock is waiting to rip out its keel.—Harper's Weekly.

Feeling For Death.

For a week the self appointed guide to the blind on their daily walks had noticed that the two men who were her special charges felt carefully of the wall on either side of the door of the asylum when passing in and out. Since she was there to lead them, that precaution seemed not at all necessary, and she finally asked their reason for

"I am looking for crape on the door," ene old man told her. "They don't like to let us know here in the asylum when any one dies for fear of making us feel bad, but they put crape on the door, and by feeling for it when we pass in and out we can find out for ourselves when one of us has gone."—New York Press.

How Fielding Spelled His Name.

The Fieldings are an ancient race, and the Denbigh earldom dates from 1622. By the way, there is a funny story as regards the family name and its spelling. The author of "Tom Jones" was one of the race, and the then Lord Denbigh said to his relative: "Why don't you spell your name 'Fellding,' as the rest of us do and not 'Fielding'?"

The writer made answer, "Because I am the first of the family who learned to spell."—London Gentlewoman.

bags and cedar chests, some housewives pack their furs and woolens away wrapped in newspapers at the end of the winter season and find that is a satisfactory way of preserving them against the ravages of moths. There is nothing better than old newspapers for use under the carpets for the same reason.

Old newspapers have many other uses as well. Wet in water they serve to clean out the stove splendidly. Crushed newspapers are excellent to clean lamp chimneys. They can even be used for an iron holder for an emergency.

Newspapers dipped in lamp oil are useful for cleaning windows. Irons not much soiled can be rubbed on old newspapers and thus made fit for use. Dipped in lamp oil they are splendid to rub the outside of the dishpan. They keep it bright and shining. Torn in shreds, slightly dampened and scattered over the carpet, they keep down dust when sweeping. They clean the sink of its grease and sediment. Nothing is better, for the greasy paper can be at once burned after use.

Many times folded newspapers will serve as a mat to stand hot and black-ened pots or kettles on and save soling the kitchen table. The kitchen stove is kept bright after the cooking of each meal with old papers, and this saves many polishings.

LIFE BUOY AND OAR.

Putting on the One and Supporting Yourself With the Other.

Very few persons know how to get into a life buoy, and, as in this uncertain world one never knows when one may need to make use of a buoy in real earnest, a little practice might prove of great value in an emergency.

Now, when the buoy is thrown into the water the temptation is to try to lift it over one's head and shoulders or to dive through it. This, however, is impossible. The correct thing is to grasp the two sides of the buoy with fingers of the hands uppermost, lower yoursek under the buoy and come up through the center, then rest your arms upon the sides, and you will be comfortably supported as long as it is necessary.

More often than otherwise, in case of accident, a life buoy is not at hand. In such an event an oar may be used as a substitute. Now, there is some little art in saving oneself by this means, for an average sized sculi is not buoyant enough to support a person if grasped as the first impulse would direct.

There is only one way in which the oar will support a human being. It must be ridden like a hobbyhorse, The haft is put between the legs and the blade allowed to project above the surface of the water in front of one. By this means the bead is kept well above the water.—Pearson's Magazine.

BANISH PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS

In the Spring Most People Need a Tonic Medicine

If you want the best of health and new strength in the spring you must build up your blood with a tonic medicine. Following the long, indeor winter months most people feel depressed and easily tired. This means that the blood is inpure and watery. It is this state of the blood that causes pimples and unsightly eruptions. To this same condition is due attacks of rheumatism and lumbago; the sharp, stabbing pains of sciatica and ne raicia; poor appetite, frequent headaches and a desire to avoid exertion. You cannot cure these troubles by the use of purgative medicines-you need a tonic, and a tonic only, and among all medicines there is none can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their tonic, life-giving, nerve-restoring powers. Every does of this medicine makes new, rich blood which drives out impurities, stimulates every organ and brings a feeling of new health and energy to weak, tired out, ailing men, women and children. If you are feeling out of sorts give this medicine a trial and see how quickly it will restore the appetite, revive drooping spirits and fill your veins with new, health-giving blood. Dr. Williams Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent by mail for 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2 .-50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AEROPLANE WAR.

People Will Have to Find Shelter Underground.

M. Mallet, a member of the French Aeronaut Club, analyzes the various changes science has brought into warfare, and points out that though the more primitive weapons have been gradually replaced by rifle and cannon, the field of battle has hitherto remained the same. Aviation has, however, changed all this, and completely revolutionizes military science. All the time, labor and money spent in fortifying frontiers is now useless. For no number of troops massed behind the ramparts will any longer be able to arrest the flight of the new war birds. Thus the whole of the military edifice, which men and nations have given of their best to build, falls like a house of cards, and the edu-cation of the modern warrior must begin all over again. The conquest of the air has shaken the throne of Mars to its very foundation. In addition to instructive comments on the wanton waste of millions spent on weapons and dreadnoughts, which the flying machine will render obsolete, the author gives a weird picture of a battle in the air. OR. A LOOK INTO THE PAST

Mr. Crawshaw jerked his head in the direction of Nancy, and then, with an evil look in his black eyes he turned and lounged towards the girl just as Mrs. Fairfax glided up to Derry's side.

"Here you are at last," she said, with a sigh of relief; "where have you been to? Oh, there is Miss Hamilton, also. Shall we join them?

"I prefer to remain here, if you have no objection."

To all appearances Mr. Darnley was only very languid, very tired, and rather dull.

"I am delighted—delighted!" cried Mrs. Fairfax, with enthusiasm, and speaking the honest truth. 'I have been dying for some congenial society all the day." "Scarcely flattering to my cou-sin and her guests."

He was smiling, but his ears were listening for those tones once again. She was surely very silent. He did not dare look, for if he did it meant fresh torture.

"Oh, you know what I mean, eried Mrs. Fairfax, setting herself in a luxurious chair and glancing up at him coquettishly, feeling that her complexion must look well in the moonlight; then her smile went, and she frowned.

"Oh, they are coming to disturb us, just when we are so comfortable! How grave they all look!" She leaned back in the chair and unfurled her fan. "Are you discussing state secrets, you four young people? How silent you are!'

They, none of them, answered her, though Miss Chester evinced a desire to giggle, which she managed to check with difficulty.

As they reached the steps Dorothy turned to Crawshaw.

You must forgive me, Mr. Crawshaw, if I spoke rudely to you," she said, coldly drawing Nancy's trembling hand through her arm; "but please understand that Miss Hamilton is my dearest friend, and I resent an insult to her as I should resent an insult to

Mrs. Fairfax shut her fan and sat bolt upright. This was going to be amusing with a vengeance!

Derrick Darnley only leaned still closer against the marble pillar; his face had grown curiously set and stiff, and his eyes were fastened on that slender, shrinking form before

"I can't deny it, dear," she said, quietly, "for—for it is true."

'You-you are not going to marry this-

"Oh, don't mind me!" sneered Crawshaw, as Dorothy's voice broke. "You don't seem pleased at Miss Hamilton having chosen me, Miss Leicester."

Pleased!"-Dorothy forgot everything, her duty as hostess, the ordinary conventionalities of society, everything but this hideous fact-that Nancy, her dear, true Nancy, was about to give herself to such a brute as Thomas Crawshaw. 'I cannot-will not believe it!"tears were coming to her eyes, and a lump rose in her throat. "Nancy, you must be mad! What has come to you, darling-don't we make you happy-do you want to leave me? No, no, it is only a joke, or'-Dorothy turned suddenly to Crawshaw-"or, if it is true, you have made her promise by some unfair means. Yes, yes, I fee! it; I know it. She would never have done this of her own free will!"

Crawshaw's face darkened.

"I thank you for your good opin-ion of me, Miss Leicester!" he said, savagely; then he put his hand on Nancy's shoulder. "Speak out!" he muttered. "Don't stand there like a dog! Don't you hear what is being said, Nancy Miss Leicester gives me one insult after another, and you must set her right.'

"Don't listen to him, darling, listen to me!" cried Dorothy, throwing her arms round the girl's trembling form. "Is-is this awful thing forced upon you, or do you mean to marry him of your own free will? Nancy, you must answer

Dorothy's arms slackened in their hold, and she stepped back.

"Then," she said, in trembling tones, "then there is nothing left for me to do but to offer my sincere apologies to Mr. Crawshaw, and-and to wish you happiness, dear."

Derrick Darnley had not moved through this short, strange interview, but at Nancy's cold, curt words he started, and moved forward.

As she was unmerciful in her strength, so he would show her he had no mercy.

"Of course you do, Dolly," he and her arms hanging nerveless by her side, and Crawshaw gazed at her with savage joy shining in his black eyes.

"So we're quits at last, Nancy, are we?" he said, with a sneer. "I swore to bring you to my feet; I swore I'd make you my wife; and you see I've kept my word."

And then turning on his heel, he Humphrey, with his boundless hos-pitality, had placed at the disposal of the millionaire whenever he felt inclined to use it.

Nancy watched him go with dry, hot eyes, then with a shudder she walked across the lawn.

She could not go indoors yet; she could not bear to meet Dorothy's face, full of pain and undisguised contempt.

Just as she reached the edge of the lawn she saw two forms coming toward her, carrying something between them, and ovidently making for the plantation.

She stopped till they came. She had guessed their errand.

"The dog is dead, Foster?" she said, questioningly, der vice rord and constrained.

"Yes, miss, she were in such agony we was obliged to give her posson. Poor Zoe! Well, she's out of all further hurt, miss. She can't get no kicks now. You'll forgive me, miss, but I'd sooner serve under a savage nor be a servant of Mr. Crawshaw's."

Nancy made no reply, and the men passed on. For an instant she stood motionless; then she stretched out her hands with a gesture of de-

"If—if I could only die as Zoe has died!" she moaned.

Alas! f.r her the end of her misery was not to come yet.

The tidings of Miss Hamilton's engagement to the millionaire were received first with incredulity and then with amazement, tempered in some cases with excessive annoyance. Lady Burton could not concongratulations to either party; while as for the Hon. Maude, a trol herself sufficiently to offer her severe and very unusual headache kept her confined to her room for many hours.

The Countess of Merefield was disagreeable about the matter, Mrs. Darnley indifferent; while as for Lord Merefield and Sir Humphrey, they were, to use their own terms, "simply flabbergasted!"

But every one kept their opinions to themselves when either of the affianced couple were present, and in a very short time Nancy found that she was treated with a marked show of deference by the very people who had tried previously to snub her and taunt her with her dependency on Sir Humphrey's bounty.

Derrick Darnley had been called away to London on private and sudden duty early the morning following on his return from transacting his mother's business.

No one knew why he had gone save one person, and she had the knowledge buried deep in her heart of hearts, never to be revealed.

Crawshaw smiled almost insolent-

'You are young and hasty, Miss Leicester, and so I will pass it over clusion if we refer to Miss Hamilton herself, as being the supposed aggrieved party.'

He threw away his cigar, and, with great deliberation, he turned to Nancy.

"Did I insult you just now?" he asked, shortly.

She tried to speak, to meet his gaze. Surely he would spare her the pain of this publicity! She lifted her eyes to his, but at the determination and triumph written in his they fell again.

Dorothy broke in hurriedly before she could find her voice:

"Miss Hamilton does not desire to hold further conversation with you, Mr. Crawshaw," she said, with trembling lips.

"Does she?" Cra Crawshaw gave a short, sneering laugh. "Is that correct, Miss Hamilton? Come, don't be shy. Why not speak up, and tell Miss Leicester as you don't find fault with a man taking a kiss from his future wife," and, with a flash of his black eves, and another short laugh, he bent forward deliberately and touched the girl's cheek with his lips.

Dorothy started back.
"Nancy!" she cried, and a whole volume of astonished horror was expressed in that one word, herhand slipped from Nancy's arm, she glanced at her watch. "We shall seemed positively stunned at this

Dorothy pushed him on one side. and snatched Nancy's two cold hands in her own.

"I will not believe it! I will not!" she said, in tones of such pain that pierced Nancy to the quick. "Nancy-Nancy, say this is not true!"

The girl rested her hands in those two gentle ones for one instant. There comes a limit even to suffering, and her limit had come. sense of numbness was creeping over her aching heart, a dignity born of despair slowly filled her every limb; the happy past was dead; she had cried for help, for deliverance, and none had come, now she must rivet the chains that were to bind her henceforth to one whom she knew to be beneath the very beasts of the field—a man without

A Pill That is Prized.-There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

The jaw bone was probably the original bone of contention.

BACK TO THE LAND.

In a recent address to the Royal Society, Lord Robson declared that men of science have unconsciously attacked the problem of over-crowding in cities by rendering it possible and profitable for factories to be established away from great towns. This results from improvements in the transmission of electric power whereby the factories may have the precise amount of power they want sent down to them every morning by wire at a trivial cost. The result will be, he thought, that "some day manufacturers will begin to go back to the land, and we shall regard engine-building or soap-hoiling as rural occupations."

A MAD CAMEL.

A Traveller's Experience in the Dead Sea Region.

In fact or in imagination, every one has experienced the terror that follows the cry, "Mad dog! Other animals, when deranged. may be even more formidable than the dog. Robert Hichens, describing a trip "From Jericho to Bethlehem," draws a striking picture of the Dead Sea region-lying as if under a hand lifted in imprecation: but in the midst of this lifelessness presently in the distance appeared a moving object. ad in

It was a came, quite alone, going slowly toward the Dead Sea, as if it had been driven, like the scapegoat, into the wilderness bearing a le, a burden of evil. As I watched it, it turned its head toward us, changed its direction, quickened its pace, and began to follow us.

At the same moment my Arab coachman made a furious assault with the whip on his three horses. which broke into a gallop. My companion, a Syrian, spoke to him in Arabic, received a reply, and looked very grave.

"What is the matter?" I asked. He told me that the camel which was following us was mad, and that our coachman had been warned of its presence in the wilderness by peo- the Bedouin at the Dead Sea.

WAR AEROPLANES.

Russia Has Decided to Buy a Big Fleet.

An English representative of the Aeroplane Purchasing Committee of the Russian Government which has decided to spend $4,500,000 without any delay upon military airmanship, visited the Aero Exhibition at Olympia, London, accompanied by two of the Russian Government airmen. Russia has decided to buy a fleet of 300 war aeroplanes, all the machines to be delivered before the end of the summer; and the Russian agent spent a whole day discussing Brit-ish aeroplanes with the English makers. Already the Russian Govtrnment has bought eight British-built biplanes, five Farman biplanes, and forty Bleriot monoplanes. Experts from the British War Office have been examining machines closely since the show opened. "We have now," explained M. Nor-bert Chereau, manager for M. Bleriot, "no fewer than eighty war aeroplanes to supply to the order of the French military authorities. So greathis the demand now for war aeroplanes for various countries that M. Bleriot cannot deliver any more two-seated military machines for reconnoitring work for the next five months."

Came Away No Better and Then Two Boxes of Zam-Buk Worked Complete Cure.

Mr. Fred. Mason, the well-known upholsterer and mattress manufacturer of St. Andrews, N.B., says : 'I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. The sore parts would itch and burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. I tried various remedies but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured. and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial. and although I had little hope of it doing me good, I took the advice. Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk stopped the itching and the irritation. I persevered with the balm. and it was soon evident that it would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced, the sore spots began to heal, and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk I was cured.'

eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, sore feet, blisters, insect stings, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. Heine once set himself up as an authority upon the human foot. He said that he had made a special study of feet in general, first the feet of the lesser quadrupeds, then the feet of eltphants, and finally the feet of the women of Gottingen. NATIONS THAT BELIE THEIR REPUTATIONS.

An Englishman Writes About the Traits of the Various Peoples.

Races are often given credit for fine qualities they don't possess, just as individuals are. We, the English, for example, are supposed by guileless strangers who don't know us, to be a stony, inexorable, unbending, unflinching, Spartan kind of race. We are alleged to be laconic and steel-like and stoical, writes Bart Kennedy in London Answers.

As a matter of fact we are such thing. We are a gay, sporty, lively people—that is, when the Egyptian darkness of our climate lifts, and you get us at the right moment. Our stoicalness is simply because of the weather. For in England we have days that would make even angels stoical.

No: get to know us, and you will find that we possess none of these Spartan-cum-Roman virtues. And I am very pleased that we don't. Life on the fateful, immense, Greek tragedy lines must have something of a contract. You were always doing impossibly tragical things, just because the high gods thought it was good for you.

THE EFFUSIVE ENGLISHMAN.

We English are simply a commonense, shrewd, exceedingly wide-bwake people, whom Fate has orlained to live in a country where the sun shirks his duty. We are a democracy under a monarchial disguise. We are all right-when you know us. We are experts in the art of giving other nations the glad hand, and getting them to do what we like. And what we don't know about the "fake" that is called the art of governing could be written We are a on a postage stamp. We are a very good people to know-when you agree with us. And, though you may not credit it, my dear stranger, we have a sense of hu-We are certainly not built on immense, Greek tragedy lines. The Americans are another race

THE GULLIBLE Y.. NK

This is their reputation-with people who don't know them. How they got this reputation was partly owing to themselves. They ran hurhither and thither up and riedly down Europe, saying these things about themselves, and in time people believed them. For, if you will tell people how great you are for a sufficient number of times, they will wind up by believing you. Such is frail human nature.

As a matter of fact, the America ans are an innocent and gullible people. They are, in effect, local and provincial. And when an Am-

"TRUTHFUL" LIARS.

I know whereof I speak, for I have had this kind of interesting experience myself. I have travelled amongst people who had the reputation of being truthful, and I have found them to be bigger liars than novelists. I have met people of alleged politeness whom I would have brained for their rudeness, if there had been a club lying around handy. I have travelled amongst honest people who would steal the eye out of your head if you gave them half a chance. Indeed, I have been forced to the conclusion that the reputation that a race gets as a race is always wrong. And, further, I have come to the conclusion that these reputations have, in the main, no better foundation than that afforded by the individual views and yarns and lies of the travellers of old.

It's an odd world, my confiding traveller! And the only safe way, when you are going around in it, is to go by your own eyes.

Yes, use your own eyes, and don't mind the yarns you har about the people you are going to visit. Go with an open mind, prepare to be surprised at nothing, and all will be well.

The 315 acres are divided into one section for archar for villas. The streets are already laid out and are to be provided with gas and water connections and with drains. Arrangements will also be made for a supply of electricity.

The cottage section is built by the Hellerau Building Society and the houses are rented to members only. Membership is secured by taking a share equal to $47.60 and the liability of the members ends there. Interest up to 4 per cent. is paid on these shares, and any further profits are divided among the community. Tenure is fixed and the tenant may leave at year's notice.

CHANGES IN BRITISH FLEET

SIR FRANCIS BRIDGEMAN IS A STRONG AND SILENT MAN

Home Fleet is Greatest in the World and Comprises 400 Vessels of Every Type.

Sir Francis Birdgeman, it may be remembered, was appointed first Commander-in-Chief of the Home Fleet when it was created (in its present form) at the beginning of 1907. He held the command for two years, says The Illustrated London Graphic, spending a large proportion of the time in a "stone friotherwise an office building gate' -at Sheerness. Under his com-mand, however, the Home Fleet assumed a very different aspect from that which it wore when he first hoisted his flag. From being merely and admittedly a reserve force, it developed in size, in modernity and in readiness for war so rapidly that it became plain that it was not destined for long to hold a secondary place in our first line of defence; and when Sir Francis hauled down his flag in March, 1909, it occasioned no surprise when the Admiralty announced that the Home Fleet would absorb the historic Channel Fleet, which until then had been the head and front of our naval defence. It is well known hat the Admiralty were not overmuch in love with the appellation "Home Fleet"; it was altogether oo tethering a name. But it had been necessary to swing around the strategic front of the fleet, so that not only did "Channel Fleet" become a misnomer, but "North Sea Fleet' also became the obvious alternative. For political reasons, however, this was to be shunned; and after referring in two or three official papers to the "Main Fleet,"
"Home Fleet" became, and remains, the title of the greatest naval force the world has ever seen.

SIR WILLIAM MAY.

When Sir Francis Bridgeman hauled down his flag, Sir William May succeeded hin. He also succeeded Lord Charles Beresford who for two years had commanded the Channel Fleet. Sir Francis Bridgeman took the post of Second Sea Lord which Admiral May had vacated, and now, after two years, he returns to command the fleet whose inception he superintended four years ago. On April 1st Admiral William May hoisted his flag in a shore billet-as Commander-inchief at Plymouth; but if rumor is taken correctly he will hold this post for twelve months, being already assigned to fill the shoes Admiral of the fleet Sir A. K. Wilson, the First Lord, when that of-ficer reaches his time 'limit on ficer reaches his time March 4 of next year.

CONCRETE ON THE FARM.

Its Uses Have Been Largely Exten-ded by a Series of Experiments

It is only a few years since concrete was generally accepted as a reliable building material, yet the difference which this convenient and economical form of construction has made in the outlook of the farmer in these few years, has done much to revolutionize things on the farm.

IN THE HOME FLEET.

Another important change occurred on March 25 in the Home Fleet, Vice-Admiral H.S.H. Prince of Battenberg succeeding Vice-Admiral Sir George Neville in command of the third and fourth di visions. These divisions constitute the reserve line of our naval defence. Ships in the third division are manned with three-fifths or four-fifths of their full crews, and those in the fourth division with one-fifth or two-fifths, according to the age and type of the ship. Prince Louis of Battenberg is one of the most able and popular officers in the fleet, and only recently vacated the post of Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet. He will be fifty-seven years of age in May next, and entered the navy at the age of fourteen. He served with the Naval Brigade during the Egyptian War of 1882, but his professional reputation has been made both ashore as an administrator and affoat as a commander. He has served in the following important offices ashore: Naval Adviser to the Inspector-General of Fortifications. member of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers Works Committee, member of the War Office Torpedo and Landing Places Committees, and Director of Naval Intelligence. As a flag officer afloat he has been Commander of the Second Cruiser Squadren, second in command of the Mediterranean Fleet, and Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet. PRINCE LOUIS.

The significance of Prince Louis' new appointment lies in the fact that he is senior to the officer whom he succeeds, and that, in the ordinary course of events, he will have attained the rank of full Admiral by the time his two years in the appointment have expired. HOGBACK TOMBSTONES.

Only a Few in England and Doctors Disagree About Meaning.

What is a hogback tombstone? roe Ninety-nine out of every hundred people, on being asked this question would jump to the conclusion that the answer is a very simple one and reply, "Why, a tombstone shaped like a hog's back, of course."

So far so good, says the Wide World. If one demands more ample particulars, however, even the learned are placed in a dilemma, for the hog back tombstones, which number but half a dozen or so in the whole of England, constitute one of the mysteries which archaeologists are ever attempting to

More thought perhaps has been expended on the hog back at Heysham, for instance, than on any other one tombstone in Christendom; and the problem involved is by no means elucidated. J. Holme Nicholson, president of the historical section of the Archaeological Institute, thinks that the basso-relievo sculpture on this singular tombstone, which was unearthed in the Hevsham churchvard near Morcambe some eighty or ninety years ago, refers to Scandinavian legends.

Basing his judgment on the re-searches of Mr. Calverley and Dr. Colley-March, the rude carving represents the Crack of Doom—the The Scandinavian Ragnorrock. Powers of Evil have been let loose; war is raging between these and the gods, and Whorl, the great sea serpent who lives at the bottom of the sea and is the cause of all the thar tempests which the world experiences, has broken loose.

Another scientist holds that the figures represent an animal hunt, probably owing to the fact that one of the sculptured beasts is a stag. One learned gentleman imagined that he had found a clue to the meaning of the carvings in the leg-ends of the saints in the apocryphal Gospels. The stone represented the despatch of Seth to get oil of grace for Adam when he was lying on his deathbed.

"But on hearing this a fourth savant stated that in his opinion religion had nothing whatever to do with it—the tomb was merely that on an ancient huntsman, as the hounds' heads at the ends clear-ly showed."

A common sense view of the situation shows that this simply-handled material is peculiarly well adapted to measures of sanitation and in preventing germs from spreading.

Possibly the place visited more of ten than any other by the farmer is his well. If it is so situated that unhealthful ground streams can leak into the drinking water, there is every possibility of this unhealthfulness being communicated to the farmer and his family by the most direct route. Concrete has done much to remedy this. If a well is built of concrete-a solid cylinder set into the ground-it is impossible for such leakage to occur. In the same way a concrete dairy provides but slim accommodation for disease germs. These two simple precautions are a long stride in the direction of good health, as water and milk, the latter even more than the former, are the commonest of the germ-distributing agencies and both are used frequently by the farmer and his family.

Not only has the modern farmer studied out a method of guarding hich against sickness from sources which might, in the case of water and milk, be termed, internal. He has rete gone a step further and has decided that the barnyard must also be subjected to some changes if doctors' pills and doctors' bills are to cted be dodged.

NEGROES' PROGRESS.

Remarkable Change in Their Condition Since They Were Freed.

Forty-eight years ago President Lincoln signed a document which liberated 3,500,000 black slaves in the Southern States. These negroes and their ancestors had been kept in slavery during 244 years. At the liberation the negroes were without money, without an inch of land, without knowledge of any kind, and without any moral or religious education.

A remarkable change has taken place during these forty-eight years. Without the assistance of immigration, they have increased nain considerably. The knowledge of Government sent a pretty sharp this way a considerable weightreading and writing has increased ary is Delimited By Posts and Stone Cairns.

Happy is the country which possesses natural boundaries. We are better off in this respect than almost any other nation, for the whole of our 2,755 miles of frontier is guarded by the sea. Next comes Italy with 2,472 miles of coast-line, and the Alps like a wall across her northern boundary, says Pearson's Weekly.

Contrast these cases with those of Germany and Austria. The lat-ter country has a frontier line of about 3,800 miles, of which 2,996 is land, every mile of which must be guarded against the encroachments of her neighbors. Germany is almost equally badly off, for her sea coast line is only 744 miles, while 2,255 miles of land frontier border upon Russia, Austria, Switzerland, France, Holland, and Belgium, and far the larger portion of this great distance is not protected by mountains, rivers, or any other natural boundary.

The Germans guard their frontiers with unceasing vigilance, especially that which faces France along the southern border of Elass-Lothringen, and France is by no means behind in her precautions.
As soon as the war of 1871 was

FORESTS AND FIELDS

Where the line runs through woods'a broad belt has been cleared, and is kept free of all under growth. Along the centre, at distances of about a quarter of a mile, are erected stone posts very like our ordinary mile stones. Whenever a road runs along the frontier it is marked by tall wooden posts painted on one side with the French and upon the other with the German colors. Custom houses stand not only on the railways, but upon all the main lines of traffic, and are well guarded by police and troops. Rows are of constant occurrence.

Quite recently an Alsatian, who as a boy of eighteen had fought in the war of 1870, and had subsequently settled on the French side of the border, was drinking at an inn on the German side when a German frontier guard saw him and chased him.

The Alsatian, although nearly sixty years old, won the race, but when he got about a hundred yards across the line the German fired at him twice. Out swarmed the French guards, and if an officer had not luckily been at hand a fight would have been the result.

> "The fly's power to spread disease is a direct function of its powers of locomotion. It can fly considerable distances at a high rate of speed. It is quickly carried long distances by trains, boats, team, animals, and man. It is possible to get a good idea of a fly's rate of flight in a number of ways. Flies come to ships newly arrived in port across considerable stretches of water. This we know, because a few hours earlier there were no flies on the ship. No communica-tion has been had with land. The flies must have come on their own wings. Occasionally we see a fly follow a team or animal, easily keeping up a good pace. The wing muscles of a fly when weighed are found fleavier in proportion than those of any bird so far examined. It is difficult to tire a fly out. Test this by trying to keep one constantly on the wing in a room, and you will soon find you have no easy task. All this shows the fly to be no mean navigator of the air.

"Most of our diseases are caused by invisible germs. These germs may be brought to us from sick persons by whatever is large enough to carry them and has the opportunity. Combine this fact with what everyone knows about flies, and we see at once the tremendous importance of flies as carriers of human disease germs.

"The result of this simple piece of reasoning is so startling that it is often side-tracked by its own importance. It looks so incredible that we hesitate, distributing our own logic. It seems incredible that men have gone on doing as they have done, and as they are still doing, if the facts are as they seem. The consequences of our reasoning seem so tremendous we fear there must have been a mistake somewhere. And so we dismiss the idea.

"One way to disturb this false security is to interest people in the habits and structure of flies. The more we know about flies the more es. clear it will become that they are among our worst enemies.

THE ANATOMY OF A FLY.

"The fly clings to rough surfaces by means of its claws, and to smooth surfaces by a combined action of the claws and pads. There are two claws and pads on each foot. fly's pads are covered with thousands of minute short hairs, sticky at the end. There is no suctionmerely adhesion.

"The action of a fly's pads may be illustrated by means of a piece of sticking plaster and a few threads terms? *nd small weights. Take a piece of sticking plaster half an inch wide and sew through it some short pieces of thread at intervals of half an inch, and knot the threads on the sticky side, so that they cannot pull through. Stick the plaster to a dinner plate or other smooth obman challenged, and, as the lect, and it will be found that if a Frenchman did not stop, fired, and small weight is attached to each killed him on the spot. HOW COUNTRIES MARK AND FUNCTION OF ITS POWERS OF TRIVIAL REASONS FOR CHAS-ING WORK.

> Smugglers Went Out for More Pay.

In marked contrast to the gigas tic trade wars that ever and anon shake particular industries to their very foundations, and bring inealculable misery to thousands of working families, are the trivial disputes of everyday occurrences, says London Answers.

For instance, it is something unusual for men to go on strike against too high wages. But such, in effect, actually occurred some time ago in a motor car works in Coventry. At these works all the men are paid on the bonus system, which, it would appear, is contrary to trade union principles. Most of the unions concerned, however, permitted their men to accept these bonuses, only the tinsmiths holding

But the company treated all their men alike, and the money the tinsmiths refused was banked separately, and placed at their disposal whenever they should demand it; and when it had been accumulating for some months two-thirds of the men came to the conclusion that it was too good a thing to lose, and drew their money.

SMUGGLERS STRUCK.

Immediately the other tinsmiths came out on strike in protest. But the renegades formed a little union of their own, and soon found others to replace the men who had, in loyalty to their union, refused their bonuses.

Smugglers on strike are surely something of a novelty, but such a situation arose recently on the German-Polish frontier.

Extensive smuggling operations were being carried on, principally through women who crossed over into Germany two or three times a day in neglige attire, returning with clothes in the latest fashion. From the people responsible for the organization the women received only 33 cents a day, and they came out on strike for higher wag-

Beans and peas as "ballot papers' are also rather a novelty. They were resorted to some three years ago at Glemsford, in Suffolk.

In a mat factory there, all the workers, in consequence of trade depression, were given three months' notice. But the workers themselves came to the rescue. Forming a deputation, they waited on their employers, and suggested a 10 per cent. reduction in wages. The employers were willing to consider the matter; but would the workers as a whole agree to these

Also a large glass vase, which he fell over and broke at the age of five years, sustaining injuries which placed his life in danger; the walking stick of a discontented member of the Court who made an attempt to strike him; pieces of the bomb at Barcelona; the skeleton of one of the horses which was conducting him, and a fragment of the landau in which he was seated by the side of President Loubet at the time of the attempt in the Rue de Rivoli, at Paris; various articles found in the street after the explosion of the infernal machine, hidden in a bouquet, which was thrown against his coach on the day of his weddingin fact, daggers, firearms, and projectiles of all kinds which have been unsuccessful designs used in against his life - unsuccessful, thanks to the careful precautions taken by the police.

TRIAL BY RICE.

They have peculiar methods of one trying suspects in Bengal. One of these is called "trial by rice." At tag. a recent trial every person suspectthe ed was ordered to be present, and legall turned up. First, the people were made to sit in a semicircle, and a 'plate'—a square of plantain leaf—was set before each. Then oreget was a priest walked up and down, chanting and scattering flowers. This ceremony over, one of the rth ion clerks went to each man, and gave to him raw rice, and told him to chew it to a pulp. After about ten minrely as utes they were told to stop, and to areject it into the plantain leaf. All did so easily, with the exception of three men. One of these three promptly commenced to cry, and ln't evrot: begged for mercy, confessing erything, and saying that another of the three was the chief instigat-It is a curious fact that fear, arising from an evil conscience, prevents saliva coming to the mouth, with the result described.

loped across the frontier. A German challenged and man challenged, and, as the Frenchman did not stop, fired, and killed him on the spot. The French Government sent a pretty sharp note to Berlin, and we believe that compensation was paid by the German Government.

The Russo-German frontier is marked in a similiar fashion, and here trosbles are of frequent occurrence, for the hungry, ill-paid Cossacks are constantly raiding over the border in search of poultry and pigs.

The oldest frontier line in Europe is that which marks the boundary between Hanover and Holland, where it crosses the line. A row of pontoons lies all across the river, chained bow and stern, the eastern halves of the boats are are painted in German colors, and the western in Dutch. The result is, to say the least of it, striking.

While the boundary between the United States and Canada follows for many hundreds of miles the River St. Lawrence and the great lakes, there is a vast distance of prairie land beyond with no natural demarcation. This is artificially delimited by placed a mile apart. These are supplied alternately by the Canadian and United States Governments, and run from Lake of the Woods to the Red River Valley. Beyond, mounds of earth and cairns of stone are used as marks.

The pillars are hollow castings, eight feet high, eight inches squaro at the base, four at the top. Inside are well seasoned cedar posts. Each pillar is inscribed in raised letters on the north, "Convention of London," on the south, "Oct. 20th, 1818." The stone cairns are seven feet high, eight feet at the base, and shaped like a pyramid. Earth is used where stone is not available. The most famous of all boundary marks in song and story is the "Pillar of Farewell," which marks the line between Russia and Siberia. It stands between Ekaterinburg in Russia and Tiumen in Siberia, and is an the main road along which tens of thousands of exiles have passed. It is an obelisk of brick about sixteen feet in height. On the west side it bears in Russian characters the word rope," and on the other "Asia."

TONGUES HARD TO MASTER

One of the difficulties of learning the Samoan language is that each noble has a private dialect of his own, but the difficulty is matched by a linguistic complication to certan other parts of Polynesia. In the Gilbert Islands the men and women speak literally a different language. The difficulty of mutual intercourse is overcome by making the women use the masculine tongue when talking to the men. Among themselves it is taboo. And the men do not trouble their heads about the other.

PUTTING IT IN NEW LIGHT.

Jack-"Why are you angry with Maud?"

Ethel-"Because she didn't choose me as one of her brides-maids."

Jack-"You should feel flatter ed instead of offended. You know a girl never chooses a bridesmaid who is prettier than herself."

Stick the plaster to a vote in a vote a dinner plate or other smooth obsect, and it will be found that if a small weight is attached to each thread the plaster will sustain in this way a considerable weightthat is to say, the sum of all the small weights is considerable. Now remove the weights and attach all of them to one or two of the threads at one end. The plaster will promptly be torn loose. Acting on a portion of the plaster at a time the weights can accomplish what they cannot accomplish when distributed along the whole surface of the plaster. This experiment illustrates roughly how the course, in my illustration you can see just how the weights release the plaster from end to end. It is very difficult to make this observation on a fly, because the fly's pad is so small and more particularly because the whole operation takes place in something like the fiftieth part of Wonderful as the fly's a second. pads are, they have their disadvantages, for stickiness and locomotion are not always strictly compatible. STICKY FEET

"All his grown-up life the fly has to manage with sticky feet. Imagine our plight if the soles of our feet were sticking plaster, perennially renewing their stickiness! Whosever has experienced the sticky mud of certain regions will recall how the boots ball up and what a conglomeration one drags home from a ramble under such circumstances. To such inconveniences the fly is constantly subject, and it is this that has bred in him a habit of frequently preening himself, particularly his feet These are constantly becoming clogged with adhering substances, and this contamination the fly must assiduously remove if his feet are to act properly in supporting him on slippery places. If this contamination is too sticky to rub off the fly it laps it off, and it then passes off in his excreta. Thus it is that all sorts of microscopic particles are moved from place to place on the feet of flies. These particles are rarely of sufficient size to be seen with the unaided eye. Nevertheless, they are constantly present, and the amount of matter thus transferred is relatively considerable on account of the fly's activity. When flies have access to diseased or rotten or foul matter, the transfers thus effected are dangerous. All sorts of minute organisms are spread in this way, including diseases of man, animals, and plants. It is impossible to go into details in this place, but it is only right to say that the imagination completely fails to grasp the far-reaching consequece es of this transfer of germs and spores on the feet of flies."--Mr. N. A. Cobb in "Natural Geogra-phical Magazine." ---

On account of a strike among emigrants, a vessel was delayed at Malaga some time ago. The Hawaiian Government chartered the steamer Heliopolis to convey 1,500 emigrants from the Andalusian province to Hawaii.

At Malaga 300 emigrants refused to sail, and threatened to break up the ship. They made vehement complaints regarding the food and accommodation provided, and the harbor-master, after investigation, refused to permit the vessel to de-

Empire Day in the Schools.

The United Empire Loyalist Chapter of the Imperial order of the Daughters of the Imperial order of the Daughters of the Empire, visited the Model school Tuesday afternoon, theoccasion being the presentation of prizes offer-ed by the Chapter some time previous. One of the aims of the order is the promotion in Canadian youth of a sane and sound interest in the glorious deeds of our ancestors and to this end deeds of our ancestors and to this end at two prizes were offered for the best eessays on either "The War of 1812" or Ho "The capture of Quebee". The Regents, Mrs. Harshaw, Mrs. Madden and Mrs. Templeton with many members of the Chapter attended the presentation. Mr. Ruttan, K.C., in a speech to the pupils indulged in reminscence and pointed out to the boys of to-day how the Napanee boys of yesterday had made good as Empire builders, after which Mrs. Harshaw, in a few well chosen words presented builders, after which Mrs. Harshaw, in a few well chosen words presented two handsome books, "The United Empire of New Zealand" and "The Romance of Empire," to the successful contestants. Addresses by Rev. Mr. McDonald and Mr. D. L. Hill were well received by the pupils who responded in lusty chorus, "The Land of the Maple" and "The Maple Leaf Forever." Dr. Wartman, chairman of the school board, filled the chairvery acceptably and extended a warm welcome to the Chapter. After leaving the public school the ladies and gentlemen proceeded to the Collegiate Institute where they were welcomed by Mr. Flach, who made a very happy by Mr. Flach, who made a very happy speech in which he voiced the appreciaspeech in which he voiced the appreciation of the pupis and teachers of the interest taken in them by the Daughters of the Empire. He was Tollowed by Mr. Ruttan who gave a most interesting talk to the boys and girls.
In speaking of the Empire he said that each individual is a unit in that Empire and in proportion as the separate units comprising the Empire are worthy or unworthy citzens, so is the Empire itself strong or weak. Mr.
Ruttan was followed by Mr. Hill, who in a short address showed the boys the necessity of being wide awake and painted out that true education is not merely anassing information, but is a preparation for taking their place as men among men. The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save The King. The Daughters of the Empire

A Brutal Crime.

Information of a most brutal outrage comes from the north country, near Camden East. It appears that an un-Camden East. It appears that an un-known man called at the home of Miss Mary Doyle, a spinster lady aged about fifty-five years, residing on the Nimo road, about two miles north of Camden East on Tuesday afternoon and applied for a drink of water. Being alone at the time the lady did not wish to admit the stranger; and the door being shut the stranger; and the door being shut in his face the man went away, and everything would have been well if it had ended there. Sometime during the night the man returned, and breaking down the door, entered the house and after brutally beating the lady, it is said criminally assaulted her. Miss Doyle is at present in a serious condition from the brutal usage of this inhuman flend, so much her. Miss Doyle is at present in a serious condition from the brutal usage of this inhuman flend, so much so, that she is unable to give an accurate account of what really did happen, or any clue as to the description of her assailant. Besides her head being cut and eyes blackened she is badly bruised otherwise. So far no tidings of the criminal has been found but it is sincerely hoped the time will but it is sincerely hoped the time will be short when he will be brought to justice and made suffer severely for his outrageous crime.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The announcement that this famous play is to appear is always welcomed by the people of any community be it a great city or a crossroads town, for the story of Uncle Tom and of Little Eva is one that has perhaps never been equalled in pathos and heart interest in the history of American literature. Since the great story that is admitted to have been one of the most potent causes of the Civil War and the consequent liberation of the Southern slaves was first produced as a drama, it has been shared as a drama, it has been seen at one time or another by practically every Canadian citizen. With ample water power at their command the company are in a position to guarantee first-class service in every way at a much less cost than the town is now paying

THE LOVE OF OATS

Why Normal, Active People Always Crave Oatmeal

Oats contain more body-building food than any other grain that grows. They contain more energy giving food. You know their effect on horses.

Oats contain more organic phosphorus than any other grain, and phosphorus is the brain's main constituent. They contain more lecithin, and lecithin is the chief more tectinin, and tectinin is the cuite component of the entire nervous system. That's why workers love oatmeal. That's why growing children crave it. It is simply the call of nature for what bodies, brains and nerves require.

But some catmeal fails to meet these requirements, Only the richest, plumpest oats supply a food worth while. The choicest cats are sifted 62 times to get the grains for Quaker Oats. Only ten pounds are secured from a bushel. But these fine oats, when prepared by the Quaker process, supply the utmost in oatmeal.

Oatmeal is the most important food you serve. And the best costs only one-half cent per dish. Don't supply your table with inferior oats.
